DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-6 have invoked means plus function pursuant to 35 U.S.C. 112, sixth paragraph. Where means plus function language is used to define the characteristics of a machine or manufacture invention, claim limitations must be interpreted to read on only the structures or materials disclosed in the specification and "equivalents thereof." (Two en banc decisions of the Federal Circuit have made clear that the Office is to interpret means plus function language according to 35 U.S.C. 112, sixth paragraph. In the first, In re Donaldson, 16 F.3d 1189, 1193, 29 USPQ2d 1845, 1848 (Fed. Cir. 1994), the court held:

The plain and unambiguous meaning of paragraph six is that one construing means-plus-function language in a claim must look to the specification and interpret that language in light of the corresponding structure, material, or acts described therein, and equivalents thereof, to the extent that the specification provides such disclosure. In this case, the catcher means have invoked the means plus function limitations.

2. Claims 1-21 are allowed.

3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The prior art of record fails to teach a part receiver and catcher for an injection molding machine having the catcher positioned to catch and then lowering the part from the catch position to a release position as described in the claims, including the catcher means which invoked the means plus function as per 35 U.S.C. 112, 6th paragraph and as described in the specification. The closest prior art fails to teach the catcher with the catch position which then lowers the part to a release position, the closest prior art also fails to teach the first and second hands having fingers and the hands being coupled for pivotable movement.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
